

Delivering services and solutions to the manufacturing industry has been as much the corner stone of QEF Global's success in the last 21 years as the products they have delivered on time to their customers. Everyday, all over the world, people use products that have been assembled using components supplied by QEF. From technology to medical equipment and transportation modes contain the fastenings and assembly hardware products offered by QEF Global.

The product range is extensive, from both industry standard and custom manufactured fastenings and hardware products through to premium brand items ensuring the best, most cost-efficient products on the market today. Distributing for some of the world's leading hardware producers including Southco, Richo, Ejot, Bivar, Tinnerman and Gesip QEF Global ensure their customers have access to the widest range of assembly hardware without increasing their supply base and cost.

Established in 1989 near Cork Airport as Quality Electronic Fasteners Ltd and trading under this banner, the company grew to Dublin, Belfast, Scotland and Hungary. Rebranding to QEF Global, the company has grown to be a leading partner in the supply of hardware to the global manufacturing community. Today QEF Global supply the top six contract manufacturers with global contracts secured with five of them.

In the past two years the company has established themselves in England, opened a facility in Russia, developed a VMI solution in Poland and in 2010 will expand their presence in Asia with facilities and distribution in Guangdong and Jiangsu in China as well as offering solutions in Taiwan, Thailand and Malaysia.

In Ireland, QEF has developed the product ranges to suit the changing markets and supporting key industries in Ireland including the pharmaceutical, electronics and general manufacturing industries. QEF Global also offers services and solutions for the research & development and design companies in Ireland ensuring the Irish influence on global manufacturing continues.

With tangible increases in demand from their customers and increased confidence from their supply partners, QEF Global reported growth and profitability in 2009 and look forward to continued global growth and profitability in 2010.

The company's customers range from the largest multi-nationals to local machine shops and both high tec and low tec manufacturers benefit from QEF Global's philosophy of openness, honesty and integrity as well as the company's flexible approach to managed solutions.

As QEF Global pass into their third decade of trading, they look to ensure that Ireland remains a central hub for global manufacturing.
